A PIECE OF LOCAL HISTORY...

The Halfway House (formerly known as Wrekin Cottage) has been a favourite resting place for both Wellingtonians and visitors for generations.

Despite several changes of ownership, the Halfway House has been a popular stop-off point for people climbing to the top of the Wrekin for over a hundred years.

Come and visit us and be part of a new chapter in the story of one of Shropshire's most popular areas of natural beauty.

Why not stop for a drink and a bite to eat to fuel you on your way up to the top. Or reward yourself with an ice cream or warming drink on the way down?

Our newly-restored Pavilion is open for business and available for reservations (see inside for more details).
